

Executive Summary .....	2
Competition.....	2
Competition: Goat Simulator .....	2
Competition: Truck Dirver Simulator .....	2
Differentiation.....	2
Audience.....	2

Executive Summary

This document includes the analysis of the competition of the game in the market indicating the games that might be in competition and the audience for this game.

Competition

There are different simulator in this category but I don't know about any of Simulator as an actual human being. There are simulators as animals and drivers etc. but as a real life human being I don't have any in my mind

Competition: Goat Simulator

This game might be a competition for this idea but the simulation in this game is as a Goat not as a human so it is a different idea.

Competition: Truck Driver Simulator

This game is the simulation of a truck driver trying to transport good from location A to location B. This game include different terrains and roads. The idea is essentially different because a life simulator is the simulation of a real life as a human being from a kid to being an adult and at last death.

Differentiation

The idea is essentially different because a life simulator is the simulation of a real life as a human being from a kid to being an adult and at last death.

Audience

This game can be played to kid who want to learn the aspects of a real life and adults who want to enjoy and also learn from their mistakes of their past life.